1. Visit of Shah of Haiti

Mr. Deschamps of [illegible] Haiti, a courtesy call on the Secretary of State. Dated for March 19[illegible] Mr. Deschamps, Chief of Protocol of Haiti, is known to the Secret Service having visited Washington on a number of occasions in connection with visits of Haitian officials. He has recently been in the U.S. on this same matter. He returned to Haiti approximately one month ago. At this time he returned to Haiti with the Shah. Deschamps stated he would remain in Haiti until the Shah's visit was completed, arriving back in New York City on a scheduled flight. He advised that he would be available at that time for any assistance the Secret Service might desire. Mr. Deschamps advised that the Shah's visit to Haiti was scheduled for January 29, 1964 by the Haitian Airlines [illegible]. The Shah will be accompanied by approximately 30 persons. Deschamps stated that he would like to have the Secret Service check with the Haitian Embassy and the Haitian U.N. Mission to insure that no Haitian exiles in the U.S. would attempt to enter Haiti at the same time the Shah was there. Deschamps stated that he would be available to assist, but that he would be busy with the Shah's visit. He requested that he be contacted with any information concerning the Shah's visit. Mr. Deschamps stated that the Haitian Government would not support any exiles who entered Haiti after the Shah's visit. Deschamps stated that the Shah would leave Haiti on January 31, 1964. Mr. Deschamps stated a Haitian [illegible] would submit shortly their date of entry into Haiti as June 2, 1963. They state they have not returned to the United States since that date.

The Secret Service could not find any record on these individuals on their end of the visit to Haiti.

2. Donald Gould

Mr. Deschamps stated he returned the recent to Gould. He "glanced through it, not very carefully, and gave it back to him." He does not remember precisely how long he kept the recent but thinks it was a couple of days. In any case, he states that he returned it to Gould at the next time he saw him.
